

Maths

Book Page Challenge

The page of this book are numbered starting with the number 1. The page numbers have a total of 595.

How many pages does the book have?

How many of the page numbers have a 5 in them?

English

Instructions:

Look at this text. Take each sentence one at a time. Decide whether the sentence has a fact in it or an opinion.

Which sentences are facts and which are people's opinions/what they think?

This is tricky so take your time.

SCOOBY BOOM: A puppy blew up his owners' house after he chewed through a can of deodorant. A cute red setter called Barney was left alone for just ten minutes before he caused a terrible explosion so powerful it shattered windows, burnt floors and set a sofa on fire. The six-month-old pup had chewed through the can and, as its contents sprayed out, they were ignited by the heat from a lamp. The blast probably caused £2,000 of damage but Barney, along with two other pets in the house, escaped uninjured. Owner James Brine said: 'Dogs chew everything. I was panicking about our pets and rushed home. We thought there had been a gas explosion.'

Prof Jim Flaggert, head of the Chemistry department at Sheffield University, said the deodorant was highly flammable. 'It is very dangerous stuff. These cans do come with warnings but obviously a puppy can't read those.'

Challenge – Write a short character description of Barney the dog using the information in the text.

A
R
T

These prints were created using words and sketches associated with the cities.

I think they look really effective.

I would like you to design one for our school.

Think about relevant words, phrases and images.

You could leave it black and white or add some colour, it's up to you.

Challenge – Create another for a topic of your choice ☺

