Emotional Well-Being

Take some time out of your day to do something you enjoy - this could be watching a TV programme, playing a game, reading a book, going for a walk, baking with your family, drawing a picture etc.

Phonics

Our focus sound this week is the OR family.
Can you write the words to match the picture?

English

Today we are going to continue writing our non-chronological report.

We are going to focus on the third paragraph today – What do penguins eat? Use your notes from last week to help you.

Remember:

- Write in full sentences
- Use capital letters, full stops and finger spaces
- Use facts you have researched

Reading

Read or listen to the story 'The Tiger who came to Tea'

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p1_lnmdyR1s

Pick a reading activity to do every day this week.

Write a short story about what you think happened to the tiger. Where do you think he went at the end of the book?

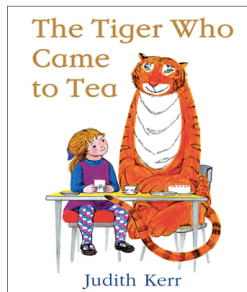

Reading: w/c 18.01.21

Pick a reading activity to do every day this week.

Write a book review. What did you like about this story? What didn't you like?

Draw a picture of a tiger. Can you label it? You might want to add some adjectives (describing words)

The Tiger Who Came to Tea

What other animals could visit us? e.g. the beaver who came to breakfast. You could draw some pictures or create a front cover. Maybe you could even write your own version of the story?

Create a shopping list of things you might buy for your tea party!

Design a label for the tiger food

Draw a picture of your favourite part of the story and describe what you have drawn.

Create a fact file about tigers. What do they eat? Where do they live?

Which character in the story would you most like to be? Explain your answer.

Maths

This week we are going to be looking at addition. Today we are going to look closer at number bonds to 20. I know some of you struggled with this yesterday. If you look at my first sum on the worksheet, I have colour coded it to help. Adding the 10 in is just a stepping stone towards the number bonds to 20. I would explain that we add the ten in because we know our number bonds to ten. If I partition 12 into 10 and 2 it makes it easier for me to work out the answer because I know that $2+8=10$ and $10+10=20$.

Collective Worship – Is it fair?

Today we are going to hear from one of Joseph's brothers. The famine years have started and we are going to find out how Jacob and his sons have been coping.

“My name is Benjamin, and I am the youngest of 12 brothers, well only 11 of us are still alive. My dad says that if we don't get food soon we'll all go the way of Joseph. My dad and brothers are farmers, but there has been a famine in the land for what seems like ages. Few years ago the harvests were amazing, so much grain, if we'd only known we needed to keep some of it. Dad sent my brothers off to Egypt as rumour has it, they have lots of grain, and they are selling it to anyone that has the money. Dad said that I couldn't go as he'd already lost Joseph; he couldn't lose me as well. The problem is that they came back yesterday saying that the governor of the land thought they were spies, and he'd imprisoned Simeon, the 2nd eldest. Reuben had told him our story. He told the governor that I was his younger brother and was at home with dad. The Governor said that the only way of proving that the story was true was if they brought me back to show him. There's a big argument now, as dad doesn't want me to go, but Simeon is still in prison. It turns out that the Governor had put the money my brothers had used to pay for the grain back in the grain sacks, they only discovered it when they got back home. There's something fishy going on here.”

The brothers hadn't recognised Joseph with all his Egyptian clothing and makeup on, but Joseph clearly recognised them. What's Joseph doing? Punishing them for selling him into slavery or just a horrible joke, and why just Simeon? Will Benjamin go with his brothers back to Egypt? Sometimes life can leave us asking lots of questions like, 'is it fair?'

Time to reflect

- Think of a time when you were confused? Who did you talk to?
- Do you think there will be a happy ending to this story?

Reflection (Prayer)

Dear God,

May we have wisdom when we are confused. Let us make the right decisions, talk to the right people and listen to the wisdom of others.

Amen
